BACKGROUND

Anger is a natural human reaction to frustration, stress or disappointment. We all become angry at times. It can occur in children as young as three or four months old. Anger can be quite noticeable in toddlers who often express it through tantrums and other aggressive actions. However, as they grow and develop, most children learn how to deal with some of the frustrations of everyday life. They also learn how to express their anger in acceptable ways. Some anger can be helpful. For example, when expressed effectively, anger can help tell someone else, "Stop. I don't like that." Anger can also motivate us to overcome problems and achieve goals. Whether children's anger is positive or negative depends on how effectively it is managed and whether it can be directed towards positive goals.

When children lack skills for managing anger it can lead to aggressive behavior. Usually, it is the aggressive action that follows anger that most concerns parents, careers and school staff. Learning to manage anger involves developing social and emotional skills for calming down and having ways to express angry feelings assertively. This means learning to use words rather than aggressive actions to communicate feelings. Parents, careers and school staff have an important role in helping children learn to manage anger effectively.

Differences in children's use of anger

Before they start school, most young children have learned that getting aggressive when angry is not considered appropriate behaviour. They may have also learned some strategies for managing anger, for example, counting to 10, explaining what they are annoyed about, or asking an adult for help to resolve a problem. These are positive coping strategies that help children manage their angry feelings and build skills for effective relationships.

Some children try to manage angry feelings by avoiding the situation or person that has led them to be angry. Children who use this kind of strategy very often do not build effective skills for relating to others, which can cause them problems in later years. Some other children seem to have few strategies for managing anger and so may continue to act aggressively and impulsively. Children with anger problems are often rejected by other children because of their difficult behaviour. Feeling rejected, they may think others are being mean to them and become angrier. This may start a pattern of thinking that leads them to respond with aggressive behaviour even where no intention to hurt is present. For example, they may get angry when somebody bumps into them and react aggressively without stopping to think that it may have been an accident.

The different ways that children manage anger are influenced by a combination of personal characteristics, how much stress the child and family are under and opportunities available at home and school for learning how to cope with feelings. From early childhood, some children seem to react more to frustration and take longer to return to a calm state. These children may need extra assistance to learn skills for controlling anger. Some children don't learn how to manage anger because being angry is not okay in their families. They don't get the chance to practice positive ways of managing anger or telling others when they are angry. Children can also learn aggression through the examples of others. When the adults responsible for children's care get angry quickly and often, or when they use reactive, harsh and inconsistent discipline, children are more likely to behave aggressively themselves. Research indicates that physical aggression in children is most common at the age of two. As skills for language and thinking develop, aggressive behavior is reduced. However, for some primary school children aggression remains at a high level. These children may benefit from professional help to learn to control aggression and stop behavior problems becoming worse.

OBJECTIVES

- The main purpose of the programme such as this is to teach parents the safest and most effective ways to keep from having outbursts and rages.
- To create an awareness among parents of the many strategies available for resolving children's anger.
- Anger management participants are presented with anger scale to know the level of children's anger
- To handle problems in a way that is productive and think about solutions before they react.
- The goal is to help parents to teach their kids learn how to identify their anger triggers and anger cues, understand the consequences of their behavior, express and manage anger effectively and constructively, and how to respond to anger directed at them.

ABOUT THIS PROGRAMME:

In the session, parents were gain an understanding of anger and the functions it serves as well as knowledge of strategies to help their child self-manage strong emotion. From the test they became aware their child's anger level. The strategies of anger management introduced are embedded within positive parenting practices that support skill development in self-control. Parents were also taught in dealing with angry children, that their actions should be motivated by the need to protect and to reach, not by a desire to punish. There are various child's anger management strategies and parental tips presented in this session.

WHAT THIS PROGRAMME INCLUDES:

Conducting one test on anger, by Gary Oliver, for parents to know the anger level of their children. The inventory covers the more common signs of anger in children. All children manifest these signs, but if several of them are persistent or if their child evidences many of them, they may have a problem.

Beal
Principal, I/c
Nonoi College
Nagaon (Assam)

Criterion of rate each statement according to the scale:

0= My child never or rarely does this

1= My child occasionally does this (no more than once a month).

2= My child often (once or more a week) does this.

3= My child does this frequently (daily or several times a week).

In the inventory, 15 questions were asked to see the child's anger level.

Test Interpretation

0-5: Your child is remarkably free of anger and is not prone to frustration. If anything, he or she may be a little too passive- but don't try to change this!

6-10: Your child is showing a normal degree of anger and irritation, but a higher score (nearer 10) is more appropriate for younger children (under 6) and lower score (nearer 6) is more appropriate for older children.

11-15: Your child is beginning to show an above-normal degree of anger response. Again, a higher score is more appropriate for younger children. Some attention to your child's response may be needed.

16-20: Clearly your child has a problem with anger and should receive your attention.
Over 20: Your child has a serious problem with anger, especially if he or she is already of school age. Take immediate steps to help your child cope with his or her anger, and seek professional help, if necessary.

CONCLUSIONS

Upon completing the session parents are able to:

- Understand that anger is a normal human feeling.
- Recognize the difference between angry feelings and angry behaviors.
- Identify what triggers their anger.
- Become familiar with their child's physical anger warning signs.
- Identify children's characteristic ways of expressing anger.
- Know the anger level of their children's.
- Consider the consequences of angry behavior.
- Develop constructive and effective ways of expressing and handling their anger.
- Respond effectively to someone else's anger.

RECOMMENDATION

- Anger is a normal emotion. Uncontrolled anger can lead to aggression.
- Anger management can help a child learn better ways to cope with angry feelings.
- A psychologist can help develop ways to change the child's thinking and responses.
- Encourage child to express his anger through talking or help him convert his anger to other emotions.

ANGER SCALE

By Gary Oliver, Phd

The following inventory covers the more common signs of anger in children. All children manifest these signs, but if several of them are persistent or if your child evidences many of them, you may have a problem.

Rate each statement according to the following scale and enter the rating in the appropriate space:

0= My child never or rarely does this

1= My child occasionally does this (no more than once a month).

2= My child often (once or more a week) does this.

3= My child does this frequently (daily or several times a week).

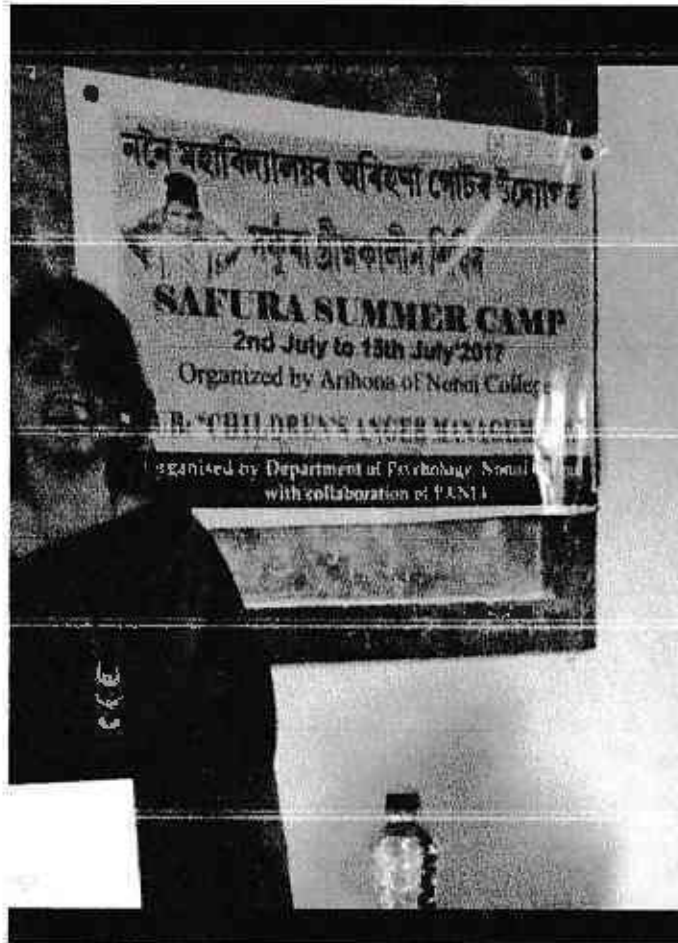

1. My child blames others for his or her troubles.
2. My child throws or breaks things whenever he or she feels frustrated or irritated.
3. Whenever my child gets angry, calming him or her down takes a lot of placating.
4. My child does not like change of any sort and become angry when change is forced on him or her.
5. My child changes the rules of games when playing with other children.
6. My child says spiteful or hateful things whenever he or she is thwarted.
7. My child is negative, deliberately slow and resists doing what he or she is told to do to the point that discipline becomes a standoff.
8. My child seeks out arguments or reasons to become upset, even when everything is at peace.
9. My child ostracizes, scorns, and complains about others.
10. My child loses control when she or he is angry and shows it with facial expressions or body language.
11. My child uses foul language whenever he or she gets angry.
12. When my child is learning something new, he or she easily becomes frustrated and wants to do something else.
13. My child is stubborn and refuses to do what he or she is told to do unless you use the right tone of voice or approach.
14. My child's friends don't like to play with him or her because he or she is such a bad sport.

REPORT

Stress is one of the most common problems across the world. Everyone has stress, because life is not something we totally control. Stress is a feeling of strain and pressure. Small amounts of stress may be desired, beneficial and even healthy. Our Resource Person Damayanti Das said that excessive amounts of stress, however, may lead to bodily harm. Stress can increase the risk of strokes, heart attacks, ulcers and mental disorders such as depression. Stress control is a long term process - not something that can be completed overnight. But there are ways to fight our stress that can be integrated into our life. Music has a unique link to our emotions, so it can be an extremely effective stress management tool. Listening to music can have a tremendously relaxing effect on our minds and bodies. Music can have a beneficial effect on our physiological functions, slowing the pulse and heart rate, lowering blood pressure, and decreasing the levels of stress hormones. The soothing power of music is well-established. Music has the ability to quickly shift our mood, affecting our subconscious mind where pesky negative thoughts feed on our fears and fuel the fires of stress. Listening to music is a relatively inexpensive, quick-acting solution that's almost always available, and it could just save our life. Every little thing matters. That's why even if it sounds like it won't make a tremendous difference, listening to our favorite music can have a powerful effect on anxiety. Music is a powerful alchemy that affects our perceptions, emotions, and physical well-being, whether we are paying attention or not. The key is to not just choose songs one likes, however. The key is also to make sure one is listening to music that represents the way one wants to feel. The reality is that music does affect emotions.

SUMMARY

Ajay is on a cruise with his friends and is having a whale of a time, when he finds Piya, a crew member and time stands still. It is love at first sight for him, but Piya is not too impressed with his very obvious ways of trying to woo her. However, Ajay does not give up and Piya has no choice but to finally give in. The two soon get married. Their marriage flourishes until one day their world comes crashing down when Pia is diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease and she is pregnant. The problem is, pregnancy only exacerbates her Alzheimer's. Ajay's senior psychiatrist friend convinces him to admit her to his care centre as there is no point of returning her. Unwilling at first, Ajay relents, although half-heartedly, and puts his wife in the facility despite her pleas to take her back home.

Workshop on Critical Thinking and Problem Solving

06-08-2017

Resource Person: Bhanita Saikia, Assistant professor,
Dept. of Folklore, Nonoi College.
Phone No – 7002318528

REPORT

The Assamese Department of Nonoi College organized a workshop on "Critical Thinking & Problem Solving" On 6th August 2017. Runu Devi, Assistant professor, Assamese department, Nonoi College, welcomed the participants and reflected on the Learning environments that actively engage students in the investigation of information and the application of knowledge will promote students' critical thinking skills. Critical thinking skills are important because they enable students "to deal effectively with social, scientific, and practical problems". Our invited Resource Person Bhanita Saikia, Assistant professor, Folklore department, Nonoi College, spoke on the current educational trend which is to standardize curricula and focus on test scores undermines instructors' ability to address critical thinking in the classroom. The emphasis on "teaching to the test" distracts the learning process from student-centered instruction and places the emphasis on the content. We invited also Meri Rani Devi, Assistant professor, department of Geography, Nonoi College as a Guest lecturer .She was pointed out that as with any skill, critical thinking requires training, practice, and patience .However, by encouraging students throughout the process and modeling thinking behaviors, students' critical thinking skills can improve. The workshop successfully harnessed the enthusiasm and experience of participants. 54 students are present in the workshop.

REPORT

Psychology Department of Nono College organize a one day workshop on Improving communication skills on 18th August 2017. Workshop began with the session on introduction to communication skills by Resource Person Dr. Basanta Borah, Assistant professor, department of Assamese in which he described Communication, at its simplest, is the act of transferring information from one place to another. It may be vocally (using voice), written (using printed or digital media such as books, magazines, websites or emails), visually (using logos, maps, charts or graphs) or non-verbally (using body language, gestures and the tone and pitch of voice). In practice, it is often a combination of several of these. Participants were also given tips on how to increase their self-esteem for effective communication skills, which are fundamental to success in many aspects of life. Resource person also said there are generally four main areas of communication skills that most of us would do well to improve. Our Head of the department of Psychology Banajyoti Gayon concluded the workshop with an interactive feedback session with participants. Finally, the Resource person congratulated all the participants and organizers for successful completion of the workshop. 48 students were present in the workshop.

WORKSHOP ON HOW TO ACHIEVE GENDER EQUALITY

Date: 15.11.2018

Resource Person: Smt. Meri Rani Devi
8638762189 (M)

REPORT

The Folklore Department of Nonoi College has organised a workshop to how to create a big achievement of Gender Equality on 15th November 2018. This programme was focused to fulfil the society's development goal which was to achieve gender equality.

Gender equality is not only a fundamental human right, but a necessary foundation for a peaceful, prosperous and sustainable world. There has been progress over the last decades, but the world is not on track to achieve gender equality by 2030.

Almost 60 students of Nonoi College participated in this workshop. At the end of this occasion the students of this college visit their locality to spread news and awareness of this achievement among the people. We invited Meri Rani Devi, Assistant Professor, Geography department, Nonoi College as a Resource Person. She said that parents may assume unequal responsibility for household work, with mothers bearing the brunt of caregiving and chores. The majority of low-skilled and underpaid community health workers who attend to children are also women, with limited opportunity for professional growth.

She again said that globally, 26 per cent of ever-partnered women aged 15 and older (641 million) have been subjected to physical and/or sexual violence by a husband or intimate partner at least once in their lifetime. Even the safety, hygiene and sanitation needs of girls may be neglected, barring them from regularly attending class. Discriminatory teaching practices and education materials also produce gender gaps in learning and skills development.

Dept. of Political Science

+919957231150 (M)

REPORT

Folklore Department of Nonoi College organized a one day workshop on "What is Intellectual Property " On 20th Oct 2019. Our invited guest Irfanul Islam ,Assistant professor of Department of Political Science mentioned in his speech about the basic concept of IPR. He said that IPR is a significant tool in today's era. The risk of an innovation getting infringed without the knowledge of the inventor stands very high. With the increase in the importance of IP, instances of IP crimes have become the part and parcel of the digitized era, sometimes even leading to failure of businesses. He also mentioned that an IP asset is like any other physical property offering commercial benefits to businesses. In a web-based world, IP protection is much more relevant as it is comparatively simpler than ever to reproduce any specific template, logo, or functionality. He also spoke on Patent, Copyright, and Trademark as follows –

Patent: Patent is used to prohibit the use or selling by another party, for a defined period of time, of original production. In brief, a sovereign authority awards the inventor the IP right after an examination of its viability.

Copyright – It is the right that protects a tangible form of expression like book, painting etc. It protects the mannerism in which the idea is expressed.

Trademark - It refers to the protection of logo or design that an individual or company uses. The distinguished logo or design helps the customers to connect with the brand value and thereby ensure trust on the goods and services.

53 students were present in the workshop.

WORKSHOP ON MOBILE ADDICTION SCHOOL CHILDREN

(adopted village)

Date-1st November, 2019

Resource Person: Biva Debnath, Assistant Professor

Dept. of Education, 9706348089

REPORT

The Department of Psychology and the NSS of Nonoi college organised an awareness program on "Mobile addiction among school children" on 1st November 2019 at Naharbari. All the faculties of Psychology Department, 25 students from the college along with the NSS members were present there. In the program Resource Person Biva Debnath discussion was held over the excessive use of mobile phones which became a form of addiction among the children.

Students find mobile fascinating and spend hours lost in it. It is not only misleading but confusing, too. It also distracts them from their studies and sports as kids wish to spend more time with their phones than their books. They tend to lose focus and their academic performance suffers badly. The impact of mobile phones on youth and society is immense. It is this area that requires attention when you are giving your teen a cell phone.

The possible solutions of the problem had also been discussed in the program.

REPORT

The Department of Psychology and the NSS women cell of Nonoi College organised an Awareness Program on Mental and Physical Awareness on Stomach Pain During Menstruation Period on 20th March 2020. Good menstrual hygiene management (MHM) plays a fundamental role in enabling women, girls, and other menstruators to reach their full potential. The negative impacts of a lack of good menstrual health and hygiene cut across sectors, so the World Bank takes a multi-sectoral, holistic approach in working to improve menstrual hygiene in its operations across the world. Menstrual Health and Hygiene (MHH) is essential to the well-being and empowerment of women and adolescent girls. Kabita Devi kusre Faculty of psychology department said that to effectively manage girls menstruation, girls and women require access to water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH) facilities, affordable and appropriate menstrual hygiene materials, information on good practices, and a supportive environment where they can manage menstruation without embarrassment or stigma.

In the program, 9 to 18 year old girls went on a march showing flashcards in the three nearest villages. All the faculties of the Psychology department were present at the program. 30 students were participated in the program.

Workshop on Interpersonal Communication

Date- 17th November, 2020

Resource Person: Mrs. Kabita Devi Kusre, Asst. Professor
Department of Psychology, 9954711078

REPORT

Folklore Department of Nono College organized a workshop on "Interpersonal Communication" On 17th November 2020. The programme Coordinator Mrs. Bhanita Saikia, Assistant Professor, department of Folklore, Nono College delivered introductory speech and also spoke on the basic concept of Interpersonal communication skills highlighting the set of abilities needed in the interpersonal exchange of information; a two-way exchange requiring skill in both expressing and assimilating information. They not only involve listening, speaking, writing, and sending/receiving nonverbal signals, but doing so empathetically, attentively, responsively, directly, and confidently during the social interaction. Invited Speaker Mrs. Kabita Devi Kusre, Assistant Professor of Department of Psychology said that Interpersonal communication is about relationships. There are many kinds of communication. We distinguish one type of communication from others based on the number of persons involved, the formality of the interaction, and the opportunity to give and receive feedback. She simply explained with example that since intrapersonal communication occurs when you think or talk to yourself, it requires only a single communicator—you! In contrast to intrapersonal communication, interpersonal communication is the ongoing ever-changing process that occurs when you interact with another person, 35 students were present in the workshop.

In order to develop and enhance the students' soft skills, career development and their communication skills, Folklore department of Nonoi College conducted a one day workshop on "Language & Communication Skills" On 27th November, 2020. The workshop was inaugurated by Resource Person Mrs. Kangkana Rabha, Assistant professor, Department of Geography, Samaguri College. Head and Assistant professor of Folklore department urged the participants to make use of the workshop to the maximum extent possible in order to enhance their soft skills. The resource person delivered her lecture on "Soft Skills: A Golden Key to Career Elevation". Her presentation covered areas like SWOT analysis, Interpersonal skill, useful links and tools related to the communication skill. After the presentation, the participants were given a few tasks on these areas. She said again on Language; the four common language skills are listening, speaking, reading and writing. Mastering these skills could make one a more thoughtful communicator who understands the needs of those around you. The invited speaker delivered her lecture on Simple Techniques to Master the Art of Communication Skills. Between the language and communication skills, there is a certain difference even though the two skill sets go hand in hand. Language allows human communication through the structured use of words. 39 students were present in the workshop.

Program Report

The Folklore Department of Nonoi College had organized an event about the topic of Gender gap among women and girls in our society. In this workshop the department aimed to touch upon issues concerning gender inequality and sex role stereotypes, nowadays economic models have failed to generate progress and prosperity for all. Mrs. Rita Sarmah, Principal I/c spoke about the lack of opportunities for women and girls to voice their concerns regarding the suppression of the genuine rights and privileges of women in many vital aspects of our domestic and social life. Our community still has quite big problems about gender inequality. Representation of women in economy is limited. Our main objective is to increase awareness about gender inequality and discrimination in our society. Our Resource Person Mr. Kalyan Nath, Assistant Professor, Department of Geography delivered speech on Gender equality and observed that a lot need to be done in this regard in every country of the world. Women and girls have less access to education and healthcare, too often lack economic autonomy and are under-represented in decision-making at all levels. Mr. Ranjit Kumar Saikia, head of the department of Folklore, Nonoi College concluded his remarks on a positive note saying that the ILO hopes that through various activities at various levels by the government, by the employers themselves, by the unions, the issue of gender discrimination at the workplace could be addressed. Therefore, he urged all concerned to come forward to promote gender equality at the workplace also. Almost 80 students and teachers of this college participated in these workshops. At the end of this event the college visited their locality and spread awareness about this topic.

The Department of Psychology of Nonoi College arranged a workshop on examination anxiety among school children on 7th February 2021 at Naharbari. Exam anxiety is one of the most important problems among moderate and low average students. Resource Person Dr Basanta Bora, Assistant Professor of Nonoi College said that in the time of examination, many students and parents approach counselors and psychologists which show the existence of the severity of this problem. Banajyoti Gayon, Assistant professor, Nonoi College spoke on adolescence period and said adolescence is a developmental transition between childhood and adulthood. It is the period from puberty until full adult status has been attained. Adolescence is also the stage in a person's life between childhood and adulthood. It is the period of human development during which a young person must move from dependency to independence, autonomy and maturity.

All the faculties of the Psychology Department went to the village and collected many of the children, teachers and parents of the local area and communicated the issue to them and discussed the possible solutions of the problem. 30 students from the college helped organize the workshop there.

Report on

" Stop Sexual Harassment "

By Campaign Through Mime Acts and Showing Banners

Date: 12th May, 2021

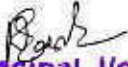

Time : 1.30 P.M onwards

Venue : Nonoi College Campus

Objectives :-

- The students representatives are guided to create awareness amongst students on the Aims and Scope of this Act as well as easy accessibility to internal complaint committee through numerous ways.
- To create a secure physical and social environment to prevent any act of sexual harassment.
- To raise awareness on sexual harassment in the campus.
- Uphold the committee of the institute to provide and environment free of gender based discrimination.

The Internal Complaint Committee, Nonoi College along with student of this College organized an awareness programme to prevent sexual harassment in College Campus. The students through Mime Acts tried to create awareness among the students, faculties and non-teaching staff to stop sexual harassment. Mime is the theoretical technique of suggesting action, character or emotion without words, using only gesture, expressions and movement. " Mime is part of our Cultural Heritage. In ancient Greece and Rome simple facial drama included mimicry. The Dorian mimes first began to lay the foundation of the Theatre."

Principal, I/c

Resource Person: Ratul Saikia, Assistant Professor
Dept. of Economics

REPORT

The Department of Folklore and the department of Geography of Nonoi College organized a sensitization program on "Human Rights and Child abuse" on 10th December 2021 on the occasion of Human Rights day at Rangaloo with the help of some local folks. All the faculty members of Geography and Folklore Department and 50 of its students were present there. Human Rights is such a thing that even after more than six decades of our country's independence we still do not know our rights. Awareness and sensitization is very important for that," said Mr. Ranjit Kumar Saikia while delivering his address to the audience. Lack of awareness about human rights in the country and the need to change people's mindset were some of the key points raised by Assistant professor of Geography department of Nonoi College, Mrs. Meri Rani Devi during a day-long sensitization. The faculties of the department tried to convey the sensitivity of the matter of human rights and child abuse. The local people cooperated in the program. This was the first such awareness programme on human rights conducted by Nonoi College in the college and nearby village and it attracted an audience of people from different backgrounds including farmers, Workers, NGOs, citizens, students and activists alike.

WORKSHOP ON OPEN AIR YOGA PRACTICE

Date-4th January, 2022

Resource Person: Lipika Das, Instructor
+919864894241 (M)

REPORT

The Psychology organized a workshop on Open Air Yoga Practice at Ganesh Ghat, Sonitpur, Assam on 4th January 2022. Lipika Das was the resource person cum Instructor of the program. Banajyoti Gayon, HoD of the Psychology Department and Kabita Devi Kusre explained the relevance of the theme. They stated that open Air yoga classes blend the safety and distance of virtual classes with the communal and energy-building nature of in-person classes. During outdoor yoga classes, student can stay at a safe distance from others while practicing, free of enclosed spaces, while enjoying nature and an in-person connection. But safety isn't the only reason outdoor yoga is becoming more popular. Outdoor yoga brings a whole host of benefits to those who practice it. Around 20 students along with faculty members participated in this programme.

REPORT

The Department of Folklore organized a workshop on "Tradition of Bhela Ghar in Indigenous Assamese Society" on the occasion of Magh Bihu on 12th January, 2022. With the arrival of the month of Magh (January), people in Assam begin to prepare for the festivities of praying to their fire god. The festival starts on the 14th of January and the first day of the festival is known as Uruka, the night of a mega community feast. Generally, family and friends gather in the rice fields and lit bonfires in the centre and make Bhelaghar (small hut made with bamboo, leaves and thatch). People also create Maji (stack of wood and bamboo made in Pyramid shape). In the night they prepare food in the Bhelaghar and burn the hut and the Maji in the next morning. So, the Department of Folklore tries to take initiative on making of Bhelaghar with the help of students and non-teaching staff of the College. As the Magh Bihu is also called Bhogali Bihu, which is quintessentially the festival of food, so we arranged feast for all the participants including teachers and students.

Report

Our bamboo building workshops give people the inspiration, skills and knowledge they need to create a more beautiful and sustainable world with bamboo! We believe in the power of community and in bringing people together: the brightest minds in design and bamboo architecture together with people keen to learn about bamboo as a building material for eco-friendly structure design. When we started our research on items available near surrounding areas that can be used for puja mandap décor, the most commonly available were bamboos. Our Resource person cum trainer Kismat Nath, Sculpture said as we believe in nature design, beauty, innovation and in traditional, hands on skills and bamboo grows in abundance in the vicinity and we observed many local craftsmen using it to make various products like baskets, mats, coasters, decorative items etc. So Extension and Innovation Cell of Nonoi College came with the idea of creating the Saraswati Puja Mandap totally out of bamboo. Our bamboo mandap is our answer to eco-friendly & fancy. 35 students from Kampur College, Khagarijan College, Charaibahi College, Nowgang College, ADP College, Chatia College and of course our Nonoi College students were actively participated in this workshop.

A One-day workshop on "Life Skills" was held on 15/06/2022 at Nonoi College. The workshop was organized jointly by the Department of Economics and English, Nonoi College, Nagaon (Assam).

The programme was chaired by Rita Sarmah, the honourable Principal i/c of Nonoi College. Mr. Uttam Ghosh, Lecturer (Selection Grade) in Humanities, Nowgong Polytechnic, Nagaon (Assam) was the invited Resource Person of the workshop. Dr. Diganta Borah, Head, Department of Economics cum Organizing Secretary of the workshop, started the session by welcoming all the participants. The welcome address was delivered by Rita Sarmah, Principal i/c cum chairman of the workshop. The objective of the workshop was read by Dr. Sekh Abdul Hakim, Assistant Professor, Department of English cum Organizing Secretary of the workshop. In the objective it was mentioned that UGC has launched curriculum for Life Skills (Jeevan Kaushal) in 2019 and as such workshop on Life Skills will make awareness among students on life skills. The resource person delivered his lecture through power point presentation and attended two technical sessions- i) Management and Leadership and ii) Entrepreneurship.

In the first session, he presented on what is management with its different branches. He discussed on personal management, stress management and institutional management. The second presentation was entrepreneurship. He encouraged students to take advantage of different government schemes and subsidies. He gave examples of successful business leaders of our country. Altogether 111 participants attended the workshop. The students were very much inspired by the speech of the resource person.

The vote of thanks was delivered by Dr. Basanta Bora, Assistant Professor, Nonoi College. The chairperson gave the valedictory address and declared an end of the workshop.
